SNOW WHITE

Once Upon a Time, there was a magnificent kingdom where a King and a Queen lived. They had a baby; she was white as snow, her lips and cheeks were as red as roses and her hair was dark as charcoal. Her name was Snow White.

When the Queen died, the King married another Queen who was known to be a Wicked Witch. One day the wicked Queen asked her magic mirror, “Mirror, Mirror on the wall! Who is the fairest in this kingdom?”

The magic mirror replied,
“Snow White is the fairest in this kingdom.”

The Queen was furious! She then hired a Huntsman to kill Snow White so that she could be the fairest. The Huntsman took Snow White to the middle of the forest, but he took pity on her and urged her to run away and hide where the Queen will never find her.

Snow White went deeper into the forest, guided by the birds and insects, and as she grew tired she came upon an empty cottage. As she entered, she saw how messy it was and decided to clean it. After tidying up, she was so tired she fell fast asleep.

The owners of the cottage were Seven Dwarfs. As they arrive home from the mines, they find Snow White asleep on their beds. In no time, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs get to know each other and become very good friends.

But then, the wicked Queen finds out that Snow White is still alive, so she makes a potion which turns her into a shriveled old witch. She turns up at the cottage of the Seven Dwarfs and offers Snow White the apple.

After Snow White takes a bite of the apple, she falls on the ground in a deep sleep. The Seven Dwarfs were very sad with this news.

Then one day, a Prince sees Snow White in a dream. He goes out in search of her, and when he finally finds her in the forest, it is too late. Snow White lies dead as the Dwarfs and forest animals mourn around her. Mesmerized by her beauty, but saddened at their fate, the Prince kisses Snow White for the first and last time... and this breaks the spell of the wicked Queen!

He whisks her away to his castle where they have a grand wedding and all live happily ever after.
